History of Tulsa-Detroit Series Shows Games Always Are Close

"THEY'RE ALWAYS NECK N' NECK.."

BY PETE FINLEY

The Tulsa-Detroit football rivalry in the past has been a close one when you consider the individual games, but a runaway for Detroit when you consider the won-lost record.

In nine contests played since the first TU-Titan conflict in 1928, only one has been decided by more than two touchdowns—Detroit's 39-14 win in 1938.

Despite Tulsa's ability to make a close game of it against the Titans, Detroit has won most of the close ones and has taken seven of the nine games in the series.

Tulsa didn't beat Detroit until 1940, by 7-0, and the only other success for the Hurricane was a 30-20 affair in 1947. For the past two seasons, Detroit has snatched away hairline decisions, by 26-22 and 20-14. Last year, a late fumble was converted into a final Detroit touchdown after Tulsa apparently had the game under control.

ALL-TIME RECORD

1928	14	19	1939	7	16	1947	30	20
1929	6	20	1940	7	0	1948	22	26
1938	14	39	1946	14	20	1949	14	20

Hurricane Defenses Shine

By Bill Stewart

Although the Hurricane has not met a truly air-minded team to date, its pass defense has proved more than adequate. In four games the opposition has managed to complete only 19 of 62 pass attempts for 227 yards. The defensive secondary trio of Dub Graves, Gene Helwig and Tom Hudspeth has held the completion average to 30.6%—well below the 33% completion mark which is considered a "satisfactory" aerial attack.

The defensive line has shown itself to be pretty effective against opposing runners, too. Guards Vic Papa, Tom Alexander and Fred Pennington and tackles Jim Prewett, Fred Cruger and Floyd Harrawood have kept the middle of the line pretty well plugged against such heralded runners as Brad Rowland, Ollie Matson and Pete D'Alonzo. Statistics show Tulsa has outgained all opponents, except San Francisco, in rushing yardage.

Ends Ray Tallent and Ernie Walkup and linebackers Jim Graham, Leroy Whitman, and Angelo Prassa have played a large part in bottling up any long runs by opposing scatbacks. Only one dash of over 50 yards—that a 63 yard touchdown scamper by San Francisco's great Ollie Matson—has been registered against the Hurricane.

It's interesting to note that Georgetown was held to one touchdown by Tulsa defenses, and the following week Georgetown threw quite a scare into Maryland, conqueror of Michigan State, before losing by 25-14. Hurricane defenses also allowed Villanova one touchdown—in the last 70 seconds of the play—after the Wildcats had done much better against Miami, which later defeated Purdue.

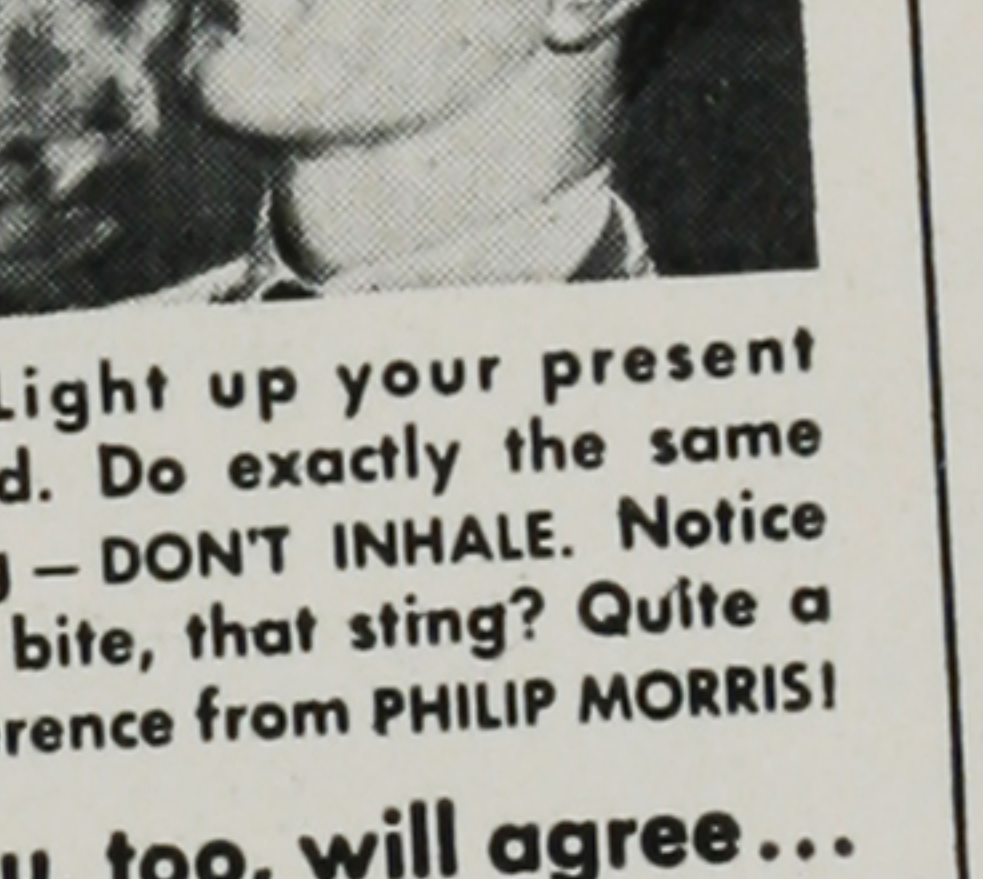

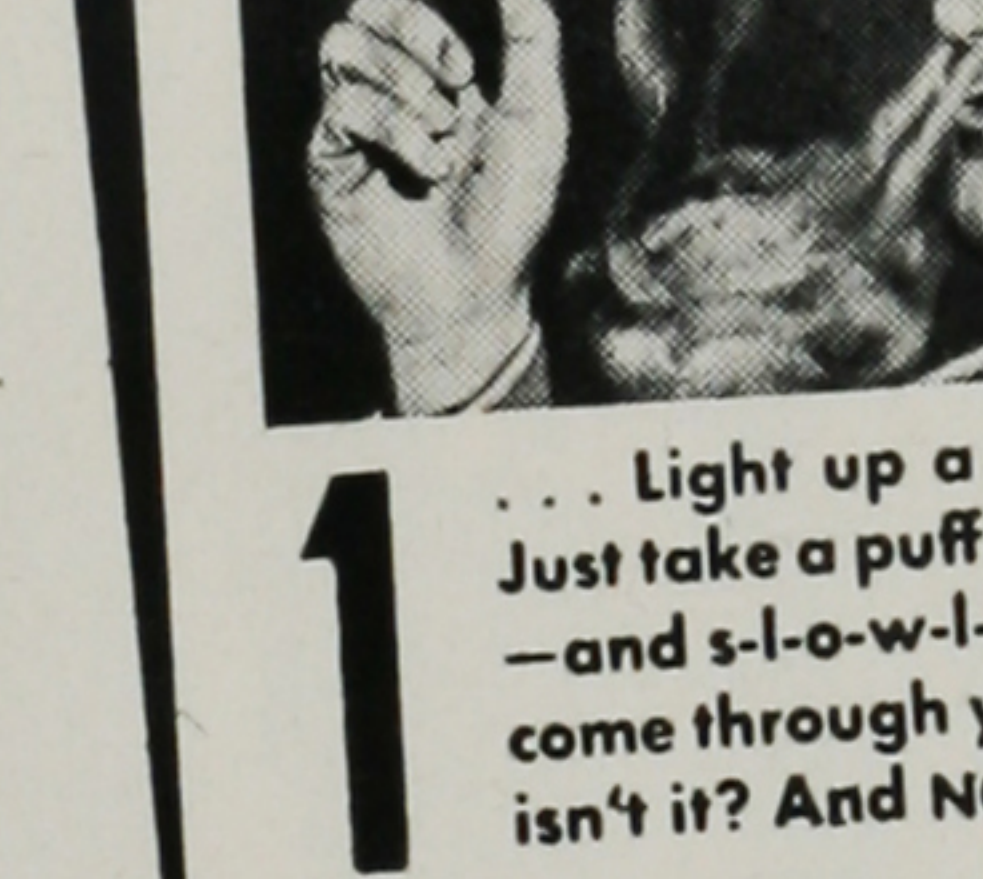

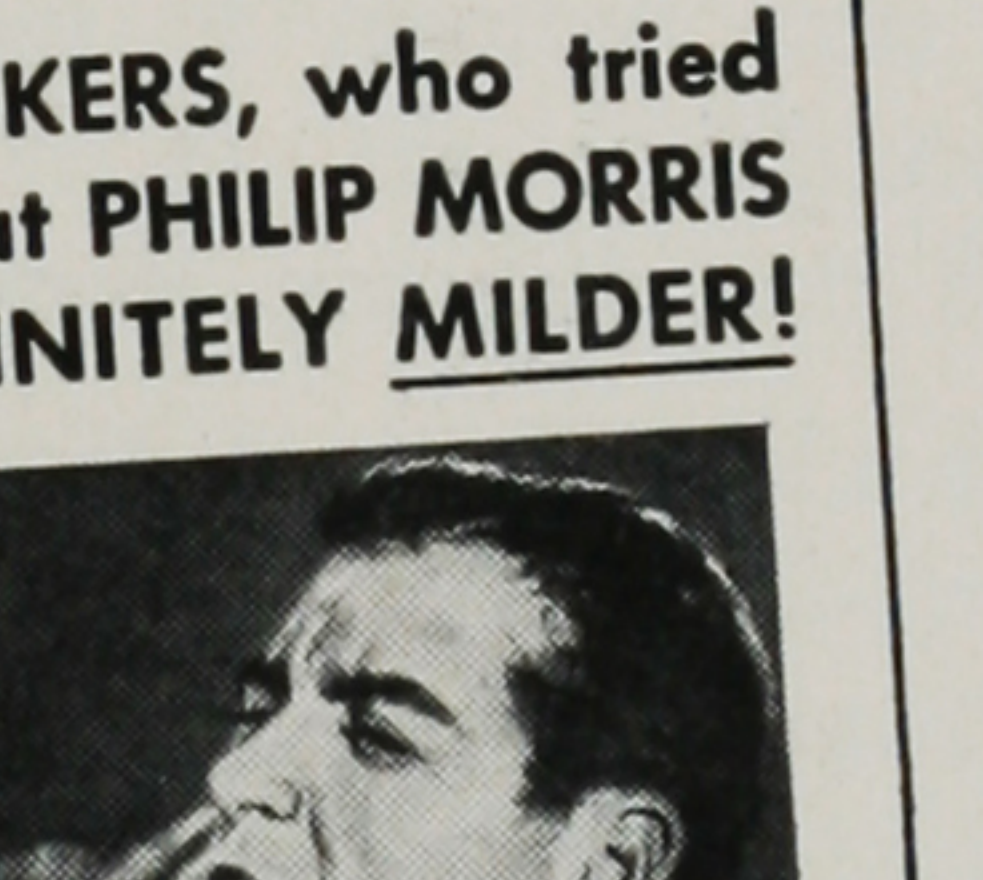

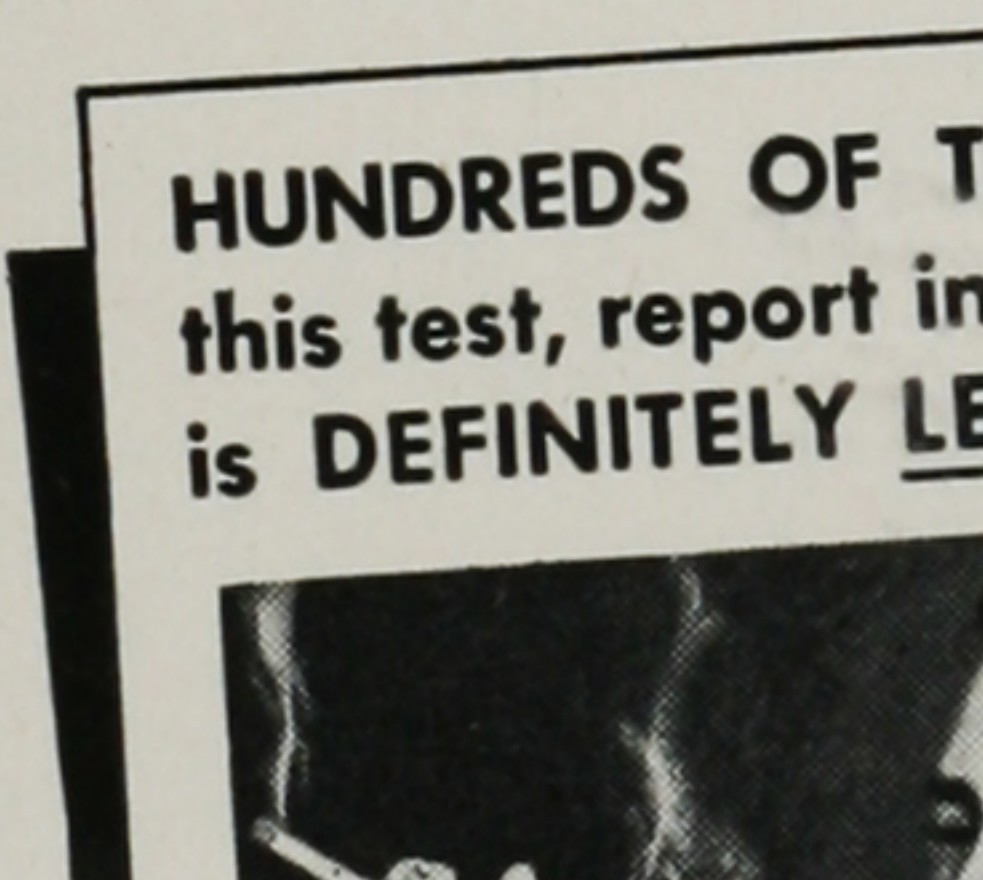

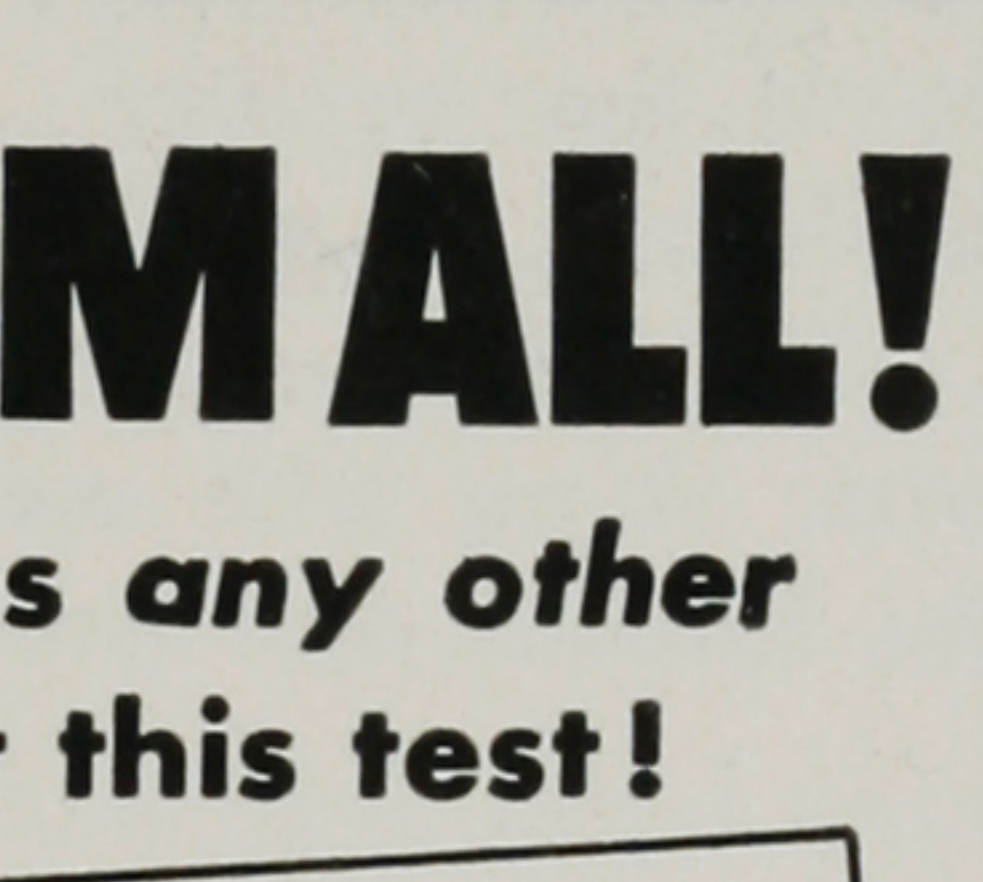

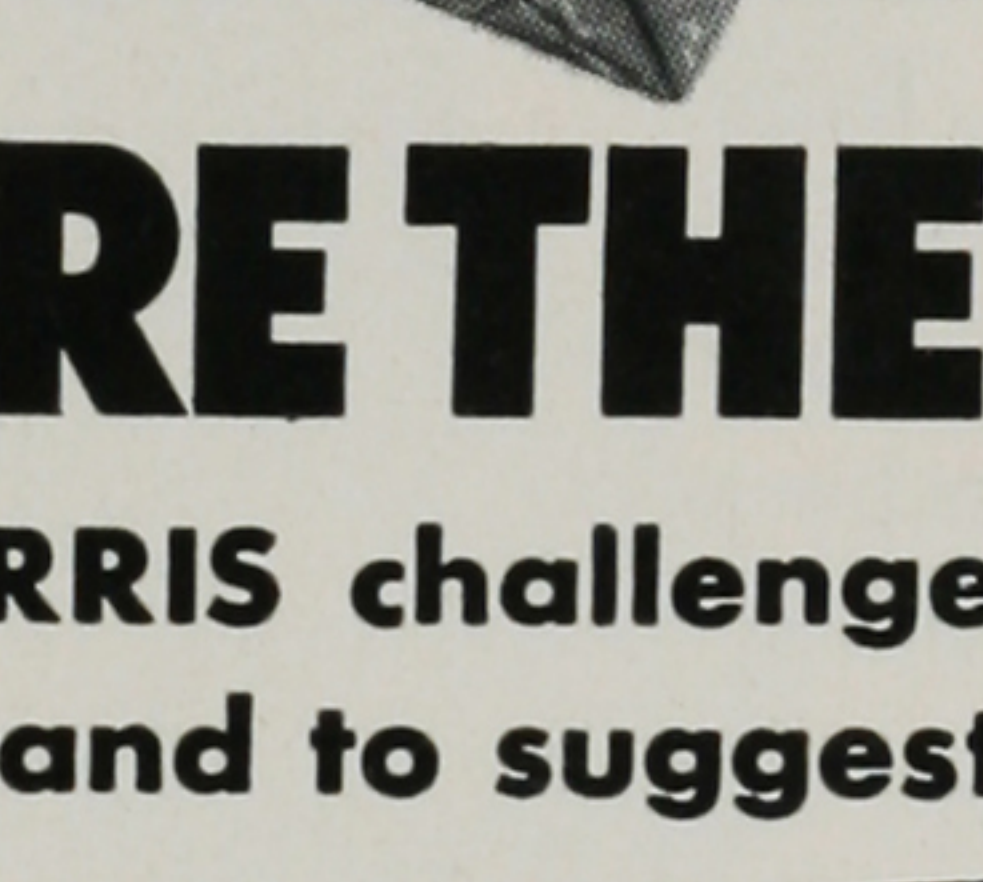

These fellows who score the touchdowns may get the headlines, but defense is at least 50% of any victory.

Colorful, Talented T.U. Band Makes Football Festivity Complete

By Marilee Moore

Marching along before you, at the half-time of each football game, are the bandmen, majorettes and drum major of the Golden Hurricane Marching band ... the band of the University of Tulsa.

Football games could hardly be complete without the rousing music of the band throughout the afternoon and the mid-game showmanship of the marching crew is indispensable entertainment for the stadium crowds.

The members of the Tulsa university band hail from all parts of the country...from California to Pennsylvania and Texas to Mississippi. Many Oklahomans represent their own home towns, along with members from Missouri, Illinois, Kansas and Arkansas.

The Golden Hurricane band is 84 strong, with both University men and women in the ranks. Complementing the bandmen are six majorettes, one drum major, and the director, Roger Fenn.

Drum major is Charles Scott of Vinita. Majorettes are Denise Jaqua, Dallas, Tex.; Clevanne McGhee, Plainview, Tex.; Gayle Bossard, Tulsa; Charlene Franke, Okmulgee; Sharon Mossberger, Tulsa; Ramona Armstrong, Anderson, Mo.

Ramona and Sharon are the freshman twirlers this year. Sharon was with the Will Rogers High school band last year as a majorette. Ramona won a first place rating in Missouri for her baton twirling prowess last year.

When the second semester rolls around, the band supports the basketball team, and puts in practice time for concert music. Some concert work is done during the first semester, too, but the athletic program and parades through downtown Tulsa fill the calendar for the band.

The half-time ceremonies and downtown parades are the occasions for the TU band's most frequent showing before Tulsans. Half-time antics range from the "Emotional Wildcat" of last week to the historical display of today. A variety of field formations will be demonstrated today when the band portrays the University of Tulsa to the present from its beginnings as an Indian Mission school in 1894.

The TU band is often called the "Pride of Tulsa," but the title is inaccurate, for the band is much more than that. The brilliant royal blue, red and gold uniforms, expert marching ability, and fine musical talent, create a band that is the pride of more than just this university or city. It is actually the pride of all who see it.

Director Roger Fenn, who is in his twelfth year as TU band director, says the 1950-51 Golden Hurricane band is, in its overall personnel, as good as any the University has ever had.

For approximately 16 years, the University of Tulsa has had a regular school band, with a full-time faculty instructor. It has grown in size and ability, and a scholarship plan, set up in the mid-30's, has assured TU of a sound band membership.

Ever heralding the fame of the University of Tulsa and the Golden Hurricane athletic teams, the TU band will march and play, welcoming all to another Homecoming weekend.

FOOTBALL SAVVY WITH SOUTHERN DRAWL THAT'S TULSA'S COACH WEAVER, SUH!

(This is the third in a series of articles on the Hurricane board of strategy—Tulsa University's football coaching staff. Today—Dewitt Weaver.)

By Milt Gralla

A few weeks ago, a young lady who had just arrived in Tulsa from the East was introduced to Dewitt Weaver, Tulsa U. associate football coach. They chatted for about 10 minutes, after which Weaver was called away.

"He's awfully charming," the young lady remarked to a companion, "but did you understand what he was saying?"

She was referring to Weaver's pleasant Southern drawl, picked up on his way to Tulsa by way of Florida, Tennessee, Mississippi, and the (South) Pacific.

Although Weaver's "yo'all" and Dixie speech might sound confusing to the ears of a newly-imported Yankee, you won't see many confused faces when DeWitt starts orating on the subject of football. He's proved both as player and coach that he knows how to play solid football which anyone can savvy. Last week's line play in the Villanova game proved that very few of his Tulsa U. charges "didn't understand what he was saying" while DeWitt was helping get them ready for the Wildcats.

Weaver's background in the game is substantial. A youth from Jacksonville, Fla., he played at Tennessee under Bob Neyland from 1934 to 1936, being named team captain and all-Southeastern conference guard in his last season. Then he coached the Tennessee freshmen one year and the Centre college line four campaigns before entering the Navy in 1941.

The versatile Floridian rose to the rank of lieutenant commander during three years of service, and was commanding Naval officer of a troopship. One of his many interesting experiences during that time concerns the group of Japanese prisoners the transport was taking from Einwetok to Pearl Harbor. One unhappy Nip, an ex-submarine man, complained continually that he had been taken alive and not been permitted to commit hara-kari and die honorably.

"Finally," Weaver relates, "another one of the prisoners got so disgusted and heaved this nuisance overboard. We threw him a line, and after one taste of that cold water, that Jap sure changed his mind in a hurry. He grabbed tight, we hauled him in, and he didn't say a word the rest of the trip."

However, Weaver says, the Nips in general were well-behaved once they were convinced that they would not be executed or mistreated at the whim of their captors.

After the war, Weaver was line coach at Mississippi State from 1946 to 1948 before coming to Tulsa in time for the 1949 football wars. That makes this his second year here, during which the Hurricane has won 8, lost 6, and tied 1. Weaver does some scouting, but usually is down on the bench as one of the game coaches when Tulsa U. is in action.

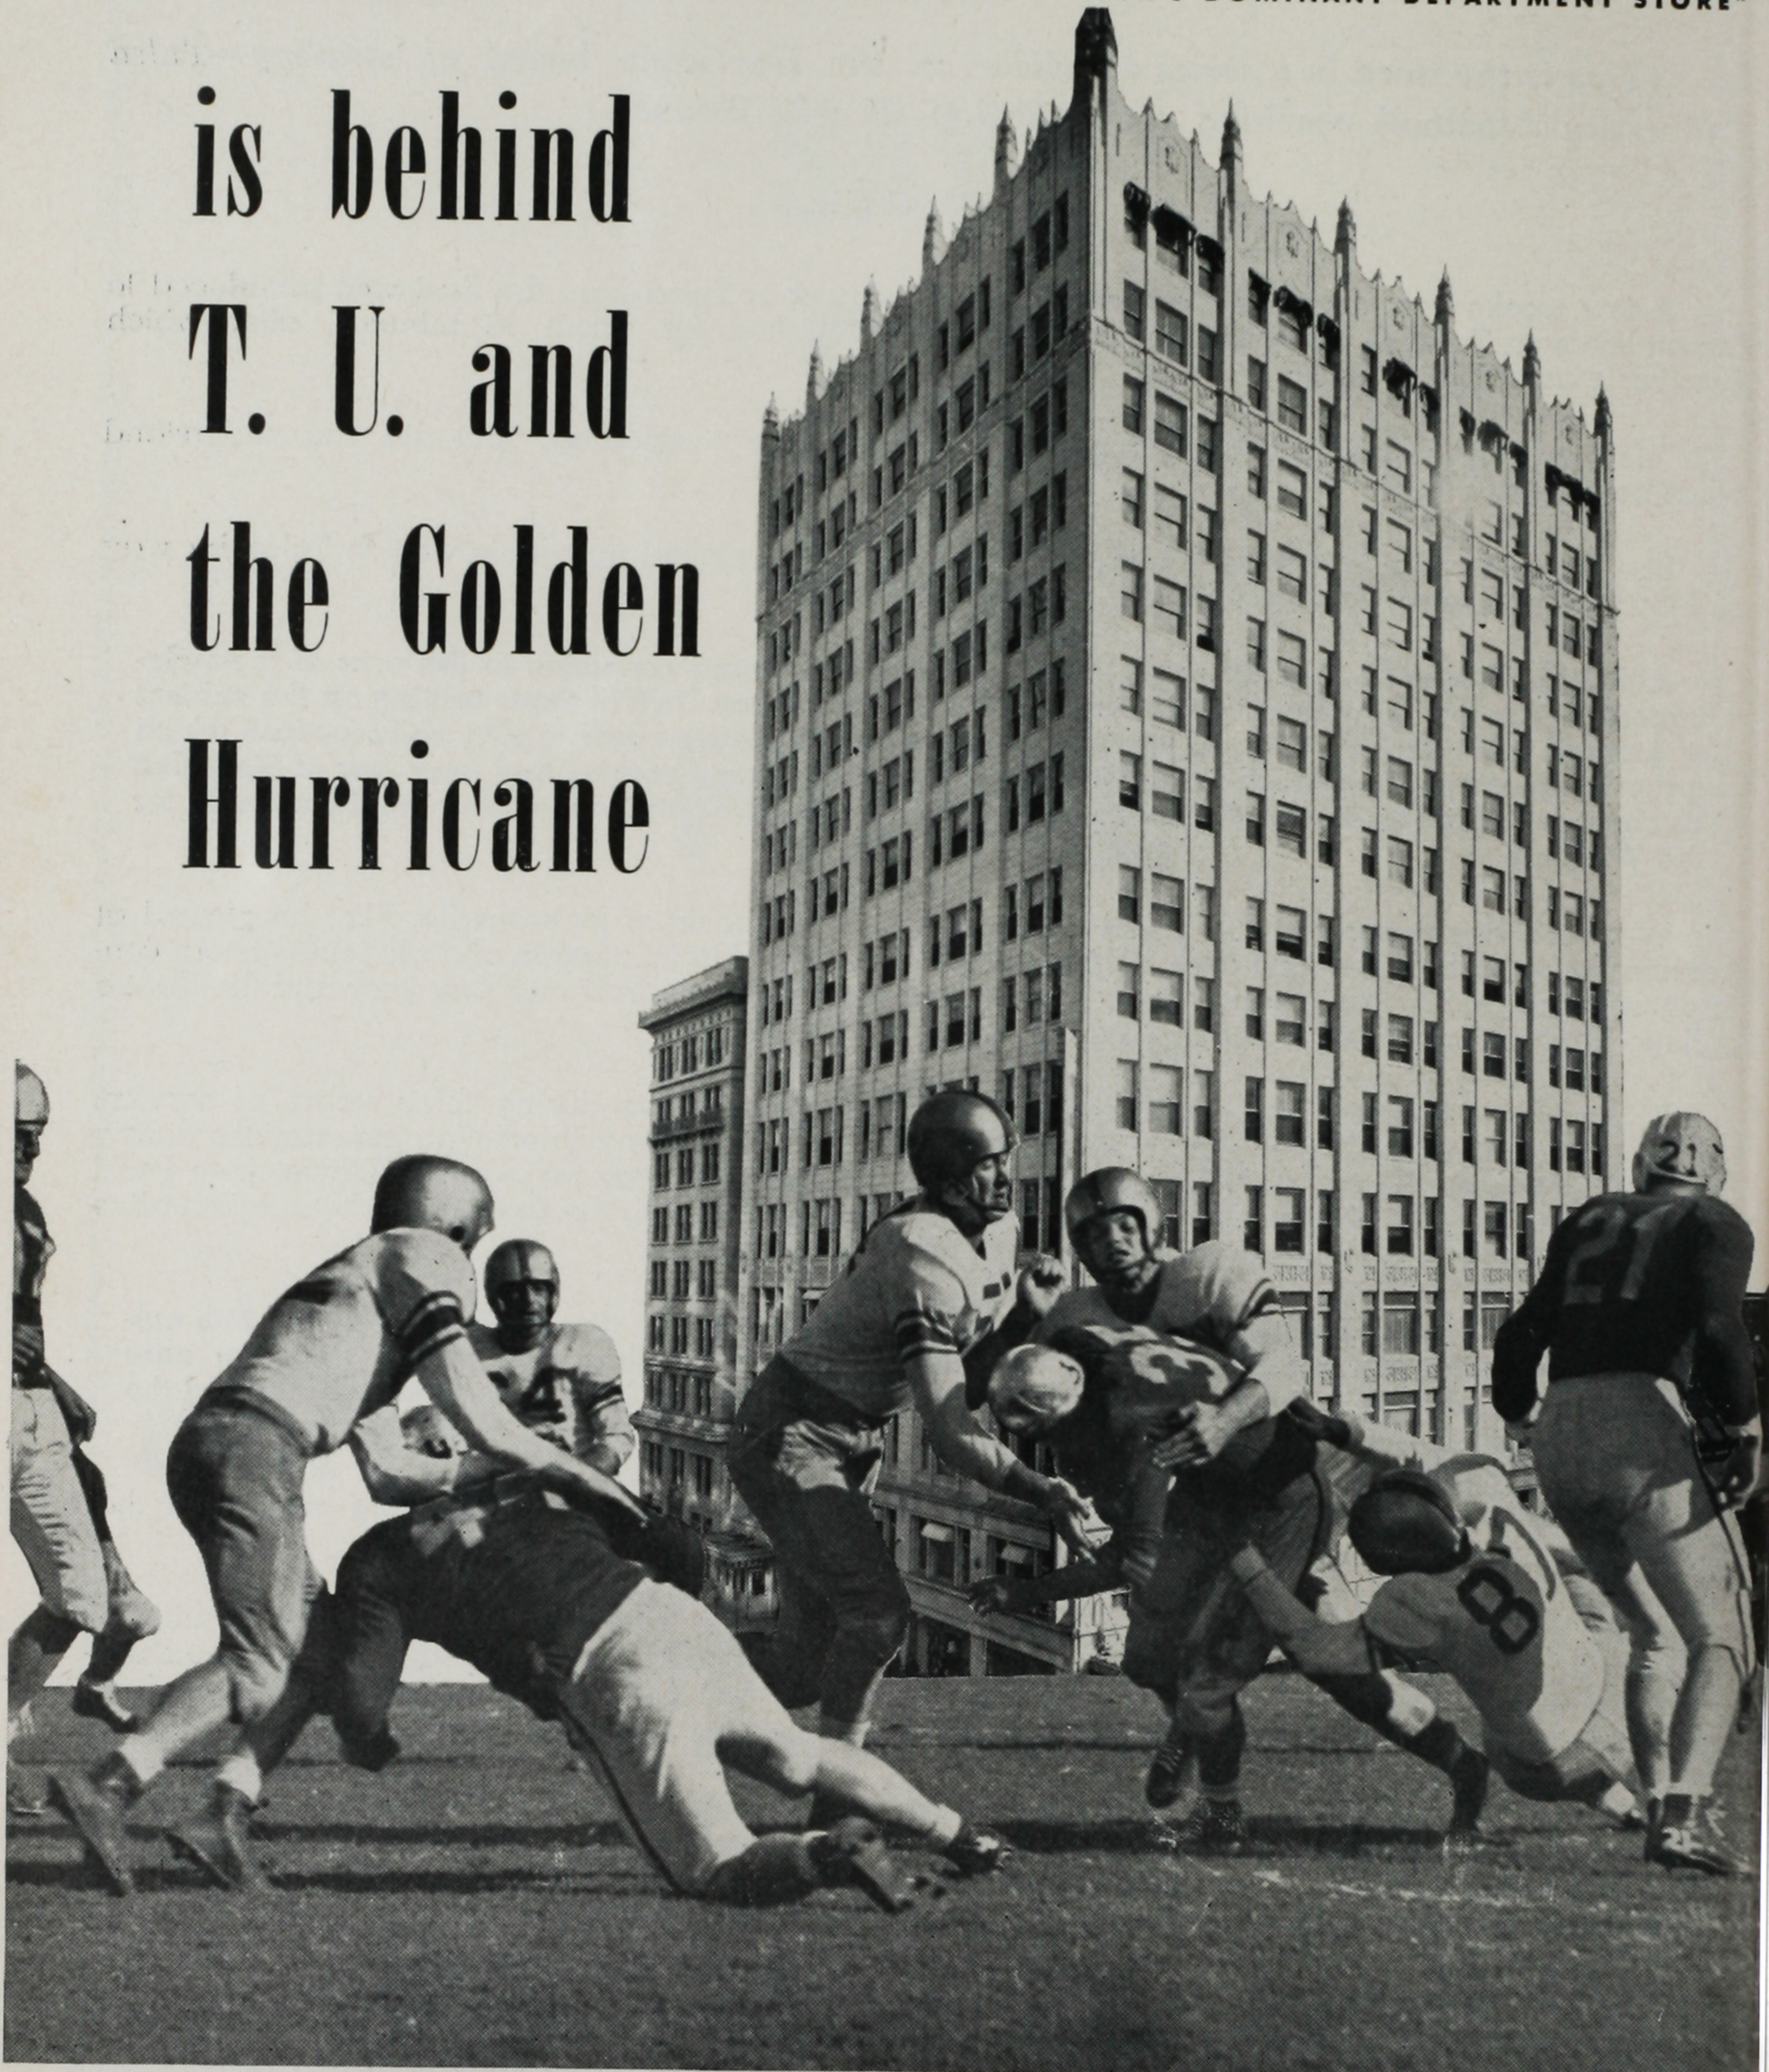

Weaver's specific job at Tulsa is to tutor the Hurricane tackles. He won't single out any of the big guys as particularly outstanding, but says they're all "spirited boys who like to work hard and are improving steadily." He's thankful for TU's depth in material in 1950, remembering the end of the 1949 campaign, "when I was more of a chaperone than a coach."

DeWitt's wife is the charming Mary Sheffield Weaver of Jacksonville. They have a daughter, Mary Kathleen, 8, who can dance, play piano, and is photogenic enough to have won first prize of a pony last year in a photo contest. Their son DeWitt Jr., 11, is a pitcher for the Brookside Dodgers.

Many Homecoming Festivities

Prepared for Returning Alumni

By Pete Theus

Homecoming at the University of Tulsa this year offers a large amount of entertainment as well as numerous opportunities for "reunions" of its alumni. Built around the TU-Detroit game, it is the most colorful ceremony of the year as graduates return to the campus to renew friendships and see the astounding building progress made by TU in the past several years.

The faculty honoree for the occasion is Dean R. L. Langenheim of the College of Petroleum Science and Engineering. The dean was introduced this noon at the annual alumni luncheon, following the parade of decorative floats through downtown Tulsa.

Dean Langenheim is well-known to the oil industry as an expert in the petroleum field. He has served as acting president of the University, dean of the College of Business Administration, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, and was a member of the faculty at his alma mater, the University of Cincinnati.

Special guests at the luncheon were former engineering "kings" and "queens"—as well as other engineering students.

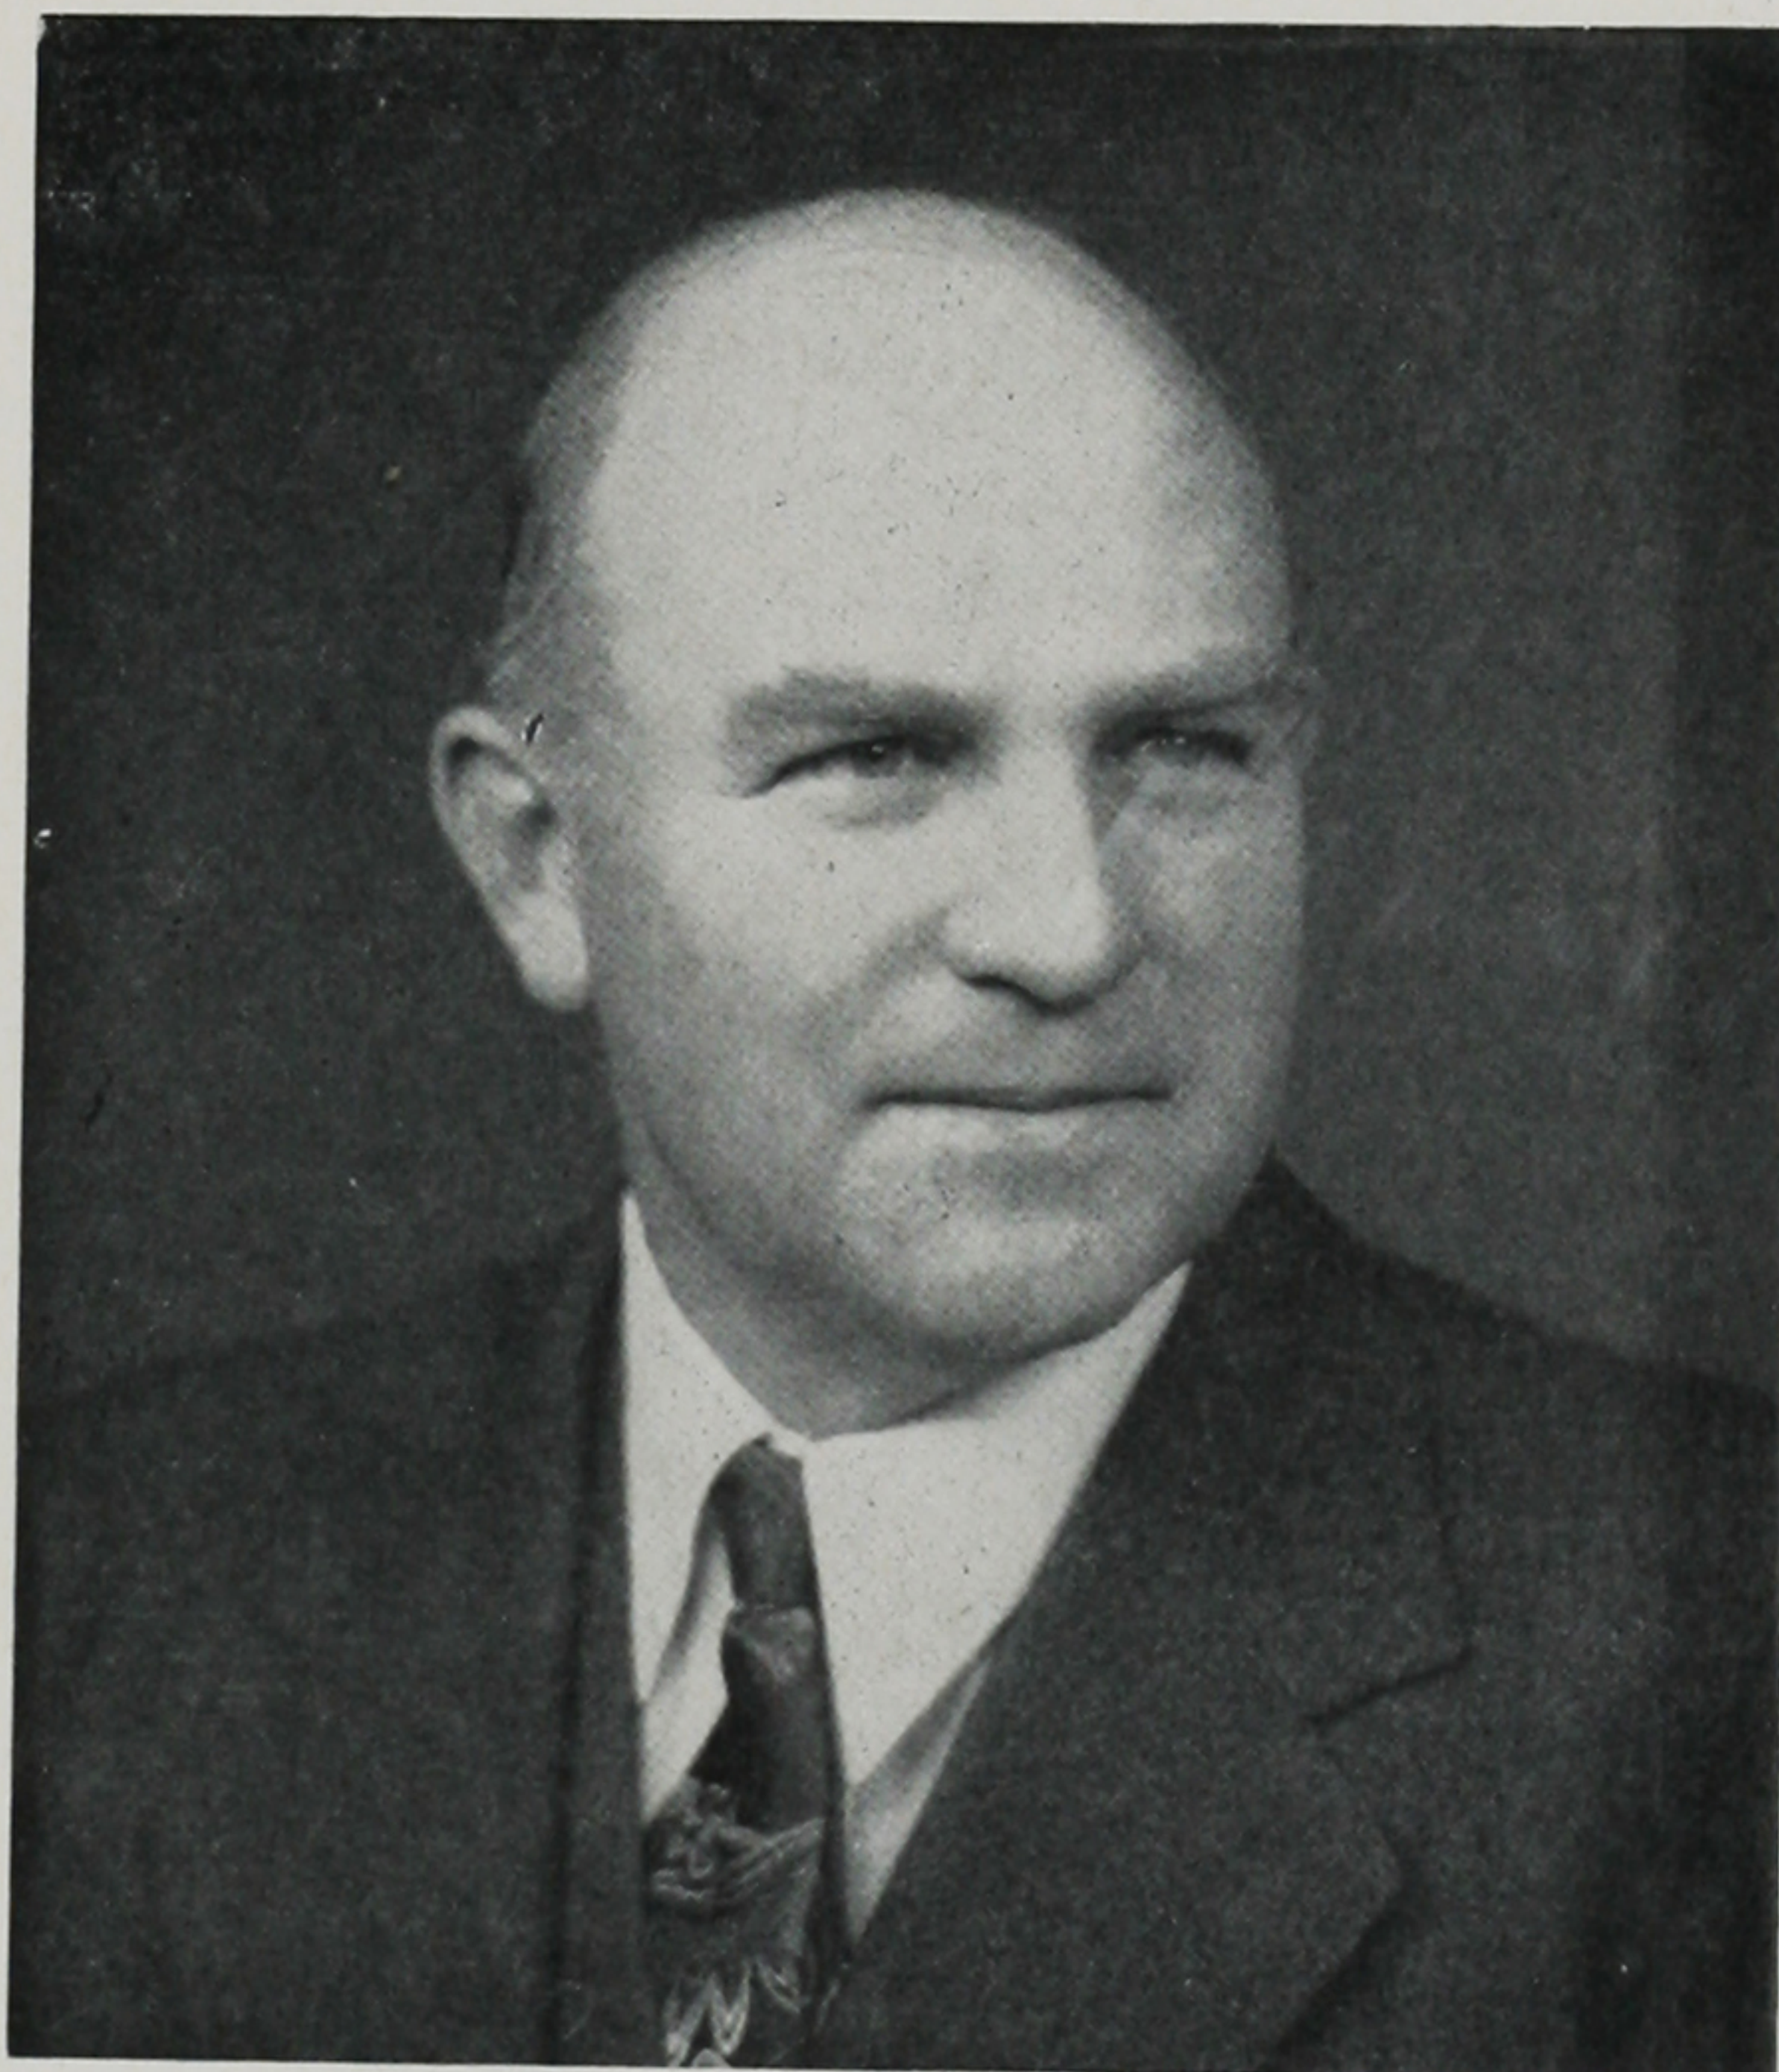

During the half-time ceremonies, Alumni Association President R. B. Havenstrite will present the awards for the residence house decorations. Awards for the best floats will be made by Art Uhl, chairman of the student promotions Committee.

Other half-time ceremonies include a historical presentation symbolic of the growth of TU from its days in Indian Territory to the present by the band and the crowning of the football queen.

Immediately following the game, all fraternities and sororities will hold open house in honor of their returning alumni.

The evening's offering is the annual alumni dance, to be held this year at the Blue Moon. The dance will begin at 9 p. m. and continue until 1 a. m. Joe Linde and his orchestra will furnish the music for dancing. Tickets may be obtained at the door.

An added attraction to the day's festivities is the election of the new Alumni Association officers for the year 1950-51 and the election of four new board members, who serve three years.

Nominations for the offices are: president - Harold Cooper, Art Walker; Vice-President - Joe Kahl, Jack Bryan; Secretary - Oralee Bowles, Arlita Gilmore Wood; Treasurer - Wright Bomford, John Schellstede; board members - Herbert Renberg, Jeanette Harry, Mary Hayden Green, Glen M. Smith Jr., Loron Smith, Carl Shipman, Victor Kruse, Harlan Pinkerton, Robert B. Chapman, Eleanor Marks, W. F. Eiting Jr., Homer E. Mauldin and Martha Buchanan.

Ballots—obtainable from your latest TULumnus—may be mailed to the Alumni office on the campus.

Unbeaten Tulsa Freshmen Meet Capable Sooners Here Thursday

By Bill Stewart

It will be a battle of unbeaten squads in Skelly Stadium Thursday night, Oct. 26, when Tulsa's Golden Gale freshmen meet the Oklahoma University Boomer yearlings.

The Gales already own two convincing victories this year—a 26-13 trouncing of Eastern A & M junior college, and a 40-13 bombardment of the Wichita U frosh. Although this will be the opening contest for the Boomers, they will be seeking to extend the unblemished record of their predecessors last year.

The redshirts from Norman swamped a good Tulsa eleven, 41-0, last year, and the current Gale edition will try to avenge that one-sided defeat. The task will not be easy however, as the Boomers again have an impressive array of football talent listed on their roster. The list includes many of last year's Oklahoma high school all-state gridmen.

As for this TU frosh squad, there is an abundance of spirit and hustle evident. The team, although numbering only 32 players, is very well balanced and is ideally suited for its explosive split-T formation offense. It features a rugged, hard-charging line which has been able to spring loose its speedy backs through the opposition for 10 touchdowns in two games to date.

The defensive unit has also proved itself to be vital to the fortunes of this undefeated club. In fact, Coach Paul Newell believes that sterling defensive play has been the major factor in the Gales' success thus far. Both the Eastern A & M and Wichita teams were limited to two touchdowns apiece—all but one of these made on pass plays.

The Tulsa scoring punch has been provided mainly by quarterback Leo Canaday and half-backs Bob Holladay and Chuck Kelly. Canaday, a Jack Mitchell protege from Blackwell, directs the Gale offense and has personally scored three TD's. Holladay is a sprint champion from Louisiana and uses his tremendous speed to advantage on the gridiron. He ran 57 yards for a touchdown against Wichita.

Kelly is an all-state scatback from Shawnee. Because of his small stature (5' 7"), the solidly-built youngster can slip through the tiniest of holes in the line and is very difficult to tackle—if he can be caught. Another all-state contribution is big Tom Miner, 205 pound wingman from Checotah. Miner is one of the few boys whom Coach Newell employs on both offense and defense. In addition, he does a commendable job of extra-point booting for the Golden Gales.

Although the lot of the freshmen team is mainly one of hard work and little glory, the boys do not feel too discouraged. They uncomplainingly take part in the grueling mid-week scrimmages with the varsity, knowing that it will help condition them for the important scrap with the "little Sooners."

The freshman football games are sponsored by the Hurricane "T" Club and the Alumni Association. Besides the OU game on Oct. 26, the Gales will meet the Oklahoma A & M frosh at Skelly on Nov. 11, and the Arkansas freshmen at Fayetteville on Nov. 27.

Reserve seats for the Aggie and OU freshman home games are available at $1.50 at the downtown ticket office, 512 South Cincinnati.

How To Win Friends And Influence People . .

Read that headline again. It's about as old as Methuselah's bones, and as original as a punt on fourth down.

Still, we people here in Tulsa are proud of the fact that we know how to win friends. We like people. And they like us. If any of those players down on the field were to walk into any home in Tulsa, he'd get a royal reception.

What we're getting around to is this:

Last Spring, the Missouri Valley Conference decided to do something about the problem of spectator rowdyism and unsportsmanlike conduct in the stands. They laid down a set of rules for all the member colleges to follow. They figured our Missouri Valley Conference could show the rest of the country that football crowds CAN behave and still have a good time.

Here in Tulsa, we know that we can show the rest of our Conference that we know how to win friends even while we're trying to win a football game. We know we can live up to this Conference "sanity code" for spectators:

1. Do not disturb or embarrass those about you through use of noise-making instruments, obscene language, or violent actions.
2. Do not express disapproval of the action of an official or participant in a manner which would discredit that individual or question his honesty or integrity.
3. Do not incite or encourage any spectators to make a physical attack or threat on any participant or official.
4. Do not throw pop bottles, paper, or anything else onto the playing area. This endangers the safety of the participants and impedes the progress of the contest.
5. Do not, at any stage of the contest, unless so authorized, attempt to enter the playing area or to pass the spectator's boundaries in order to obtain a better view.
6. Do not attempt to influence the outcome of a contest by helping to exert personal pressure on any individual participant.
7. Do not make any slurring remarks concerning the racial or religious background of any of the participants.
8. Remember that we want to win, but that we are competing with friends, not fighting to death against enemies.

If all of us cooperate in recognizing these rules of sportsmanship, we shall have more friends, a better city, and a more respected school. We cannot all be on the field, and we cannot win all the time, but we all can do our parts in "playing the game."

Our sincere thanks,

TU Athletic Department

STATISTICAL BRIEFS

Halfback Jake Roberts is Tulsa's leading ground-gainer and second in the Missouri Valley Conference, with 335 yards in 54 attempts, or 6.6 yards a try... Last week's fine performance boosted Ronnie Morris to fourth among Conference passers, with 28 of 54 completed for 349 yards... Fred Smith also jumped to fourth among the pass receivers with 16 for 204 yards... Dub Graves' punting average is 35.7 despite the fact that Dub often angles his punts out of bounds instead of trying for distance... Cliff Boucher has kicked 10 points-after-touchdown in 12 attempts, the other two being blocked...

About The Titans . . .

Halfback Ron Horwath wrote football history in the season opener against Hillsdale College when he caught two straight kick-offs and ran them both 96 yards for touchdowns.

Bob Miller, star rookie pitcher with the Philadelphia Phillies of the National League, won seven games and lost that same amount during his two years with the Detroit U. baseball team.

Tackle Jack Kennedy was a high school teammate of John Rapacz. They attended Kalamazoo, Mich. high school and Rapacz later won all-American honors at Oklahoma University.

Quarterback John O'Connor and Detroit Tiger outfielder Johnny Groth were teammates on the 1945 Great Lakes Naval Training Station baseball team. Both men hail from Chicago.

The U. S. Marine Corps is well represented on the Detroit football roster. Centers John Packo and Bill Dooling, halfback Jack O'Leary, guard and co-captain Nick Galante and tackle Dan Kerins and former "Leathernecks".

Like father, like son: Jimmy Kelly, father of center Frank Kelly, played football for the Titans in 1916.

Titans' Versatile Ed Wood

Defies Two-Platoon Addicts

By Jack Teahen

(Detroit Sports Publicity Director)

University of Detroit has a good defensive line—a line that makes life miserable for opposing backs. One of the chief reasons is Ed Wood.

The Titans also have a first class offensive line, a forward wall that opens gaping holes for Titan ball carriers to roam through. Who's the top man in that gang? Once again it's Ed Wood.

Wood is one of those rarities in modern college football. He's a two way player and is a star on both offense and defense. He stands 6-feet-2, weighs 214 and operates from the right guard spot. His teammates call him an All-American and he certainly lives up to the appellation.

"He's the best guard in the country," say the Detroit gridders, and every Titan from Coach Chuck Baer to the last reserve nods in agreement.

Versatility is one of Wood's greatest assets. He can do anything and everything in the line. He's a crashing blocker and is one of the prime reasons why much of Detroit's rushing yardage is made right up the middle.

Defensively, he's all over the place. His normal role is that of linebacker, but he can fill in anywhere he's needed. Last year, he spent a lot of time as a defensive tackle when injuries shattered Detroit's tackle ranks.

Ed had one of the best nights of his star-studded career against Wayne University early this season. He blocked and tackled in All-American style, recovered three fumbles, intercepted a pass and returned it 27 yards to set up a touchdown.

Detroit sports writers agreed that he ran like a halfback on the interception return.

Wood weighs 214 now, but he was a gangling 175-pounder when he came to Detroit as a freshman. He was a tackle candidate, but he played only a few minutes his first year on the squad. The following year, Coach Baer switched him to guard and he began displaying the hard-hitting type of football that won him All-Missouri Valley Conference and Catholic All-America honors last fall.

There's nothing safer than a can! Cans are germ-proof, shatter-proof and dirt-proof. In fact, because the inside of a can is sterilized in the processing, it is cleaner and safer than any dish. The Department of Agriculture says: "It is just as safe to keep canned food in the can it comes in—if the can is cool and covered—as it is to empty the food into another container . . ."

No matter what you pack—or what type of container you require—it pays to know what Continental can do for you. Continental has a reputation for solving difficult problems, pioneering in new packaging techniques and in helping customers in every way possible.

If your problem is one of supply, Continental is big enough to handle large volume orders and flexible enough to meet emergencies. By shifting orders around among our thirty-six can manufacturing plants, for instance, we have often been able to pull a customer out of a tight spot.

If your problem is a technical one, Continental has the technical staff and the experience to assist you in a worthwhile way. Why not check with Continental today? We certainly would appreciate a chance to talk with you . . . and we may be able to help you out.

Ape

Grape

There's a tremendous difference between an "ape" and a "grape"

- and there is a powerful difference, too, between gasoline and "Ethyl" gasoline!

TRADE-MARK

"Ethyl" gasoline is high octane gasoline. That's why it brings out the top power of your engine—makes a difference that you can feel on hills, on the open road, and when you need quick power for passing or acceleration.

When you see the familiar yellow-and-black "Ethyl" emblem on a pump, you know you are getting this better gasoline. "Ethyl" antiknock fluid is the famous ingredient that steps up power and performance.

TULSA UNIVERSITY ALMA MATER

Words, Music arrangement by ARTHUR G. CROSSMAN

Whence comes this strain of music passing by,
That lauds our Alma Mater to the sky?
With a devotion now beyond compare,
We'll let our concert voices fill the air.

(Chorus)

Alma Mater, Alma Mater now in full review,
We will drink a toast in chorus,
Hail to Tulsa U.

I lead the crowd in "Rah Rah Rah"
To cheer the team we like;
But when it comes to cigarettes
I cheer for Lucky Strike!

I really am a Lucky guy,
Just got my Ph.D.
To prove to you how much I know,
L.S., sir means F.T.

Be Happy- Go Lucky!

Enjoy your cigarette! Enjoy truly fine tobacco that combines both perfect mildness and rich taste in one great cigarette - Lucky Strike!

Perfect mildness? You bet. Scientific tests, confirmed by three independent consulting laboratories, prove that Lucky Strike is milder than any other principal brand. Rich taste?
Yes, the full, rich taste of truly fine tobacco.

Only fine tobacco gives you both real mildness and rich taste. And Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. So enjoy the happy blending that combines perfect mildness with a rich, true tobacco taste. Be Happy—Go Lucky!

Some claim this and some claim that,
But when all is said and done...
For full, rich taste and mildness, too,
Lucky Strike's the one!
